

*We are here together
each with a life of his own,
intermingled and entwined
with all other lives
and yet separate.*

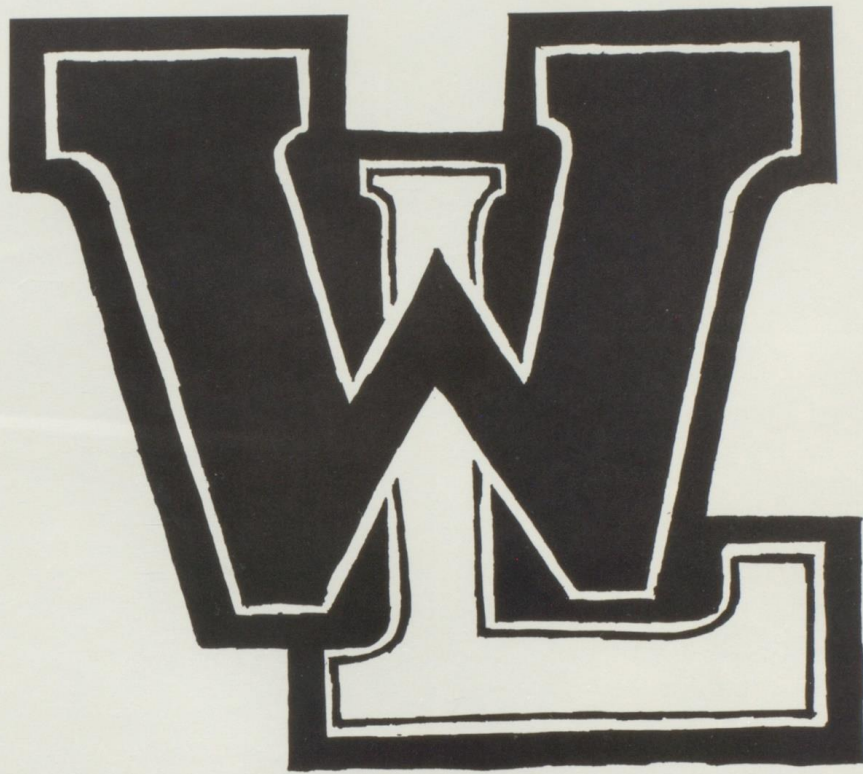

*With all our differences and directions
we do not always see eye to eye,
but there is room for me,
a place for you,
and a time for all of us.*

2 Cheerios box tops

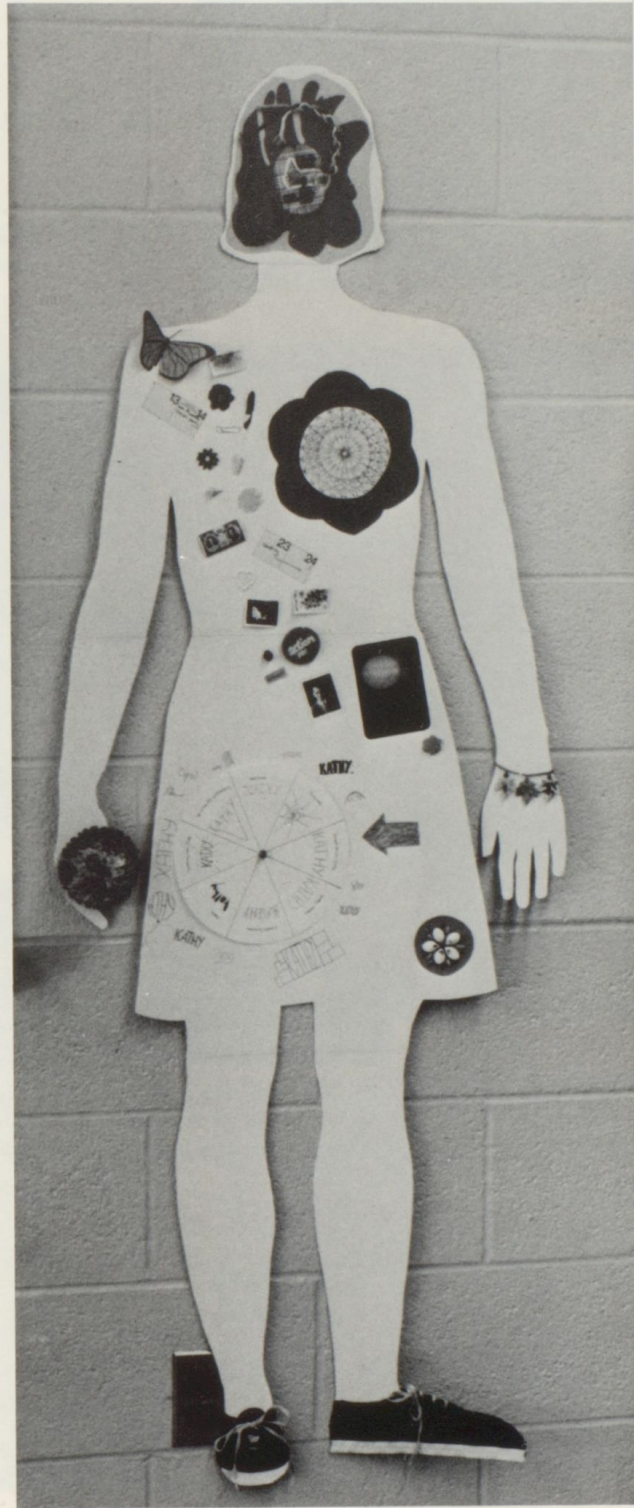

5 Bobby Riggs bubble gum cards

1 broken shoe lace

to: Special Offer, Box 1974, Battle Creek, Michigan. Hurry, before our limited supply runs out. Offer void where prohibited, taxed, or restricted by law. Allow 2 to 4 weeks for delivery.

I sent my box tops, bubble gum cards, and shoe lace. I allowed 4 weeks for delivery and I received my battery-operated life. The color didn't match my eyes. It didn't fit. It wasn't what I wanted at all. I threw it away and decided to create a life of my own. I am still creating.

A Tribute

Although Dr. Kennedy, as a member of the Board of Education and as a Public Health Officer, has been occupied with community projects, as a doctor and as a friend, he has always taken the time to demonstrate his concern for people.

In turn, we the Class of 1974, wish to take the time to express our appreciation for his service.

How good is Army schooling?

Professional educators will tell you that the training and education one gets in the Army are among the best in the world. In fact, a report published by the Teachers College of Columbia University states that the Armed Forces provide one of the most comprehensive and advanced educational programs to be found anywhere, and have, in many ways, surpassed the Nation's colleges and universities in educating American youth. This is understandable, in light of the high level of technology reached by our Armed Forces and the resulting need for highly educated and trained men in almost every category.

The U.S. Army might be called the world's largest "university." More than 400,000 military personnel are engaged in formal, on-duty education. There are more than 38 military schools and literally thousands of classrooms scattered throughout the country.

This great educational program covers a whole range of subjects from the three R's to those required for a Ph.D. degree. If you want additional education, you can get it in the Army, no matter what the subject may be.

While your main job in the Army is to serve as a soldier, the Army will make every effort to help you continue your education while on active duty. It goes without saying that this will require considerable dedication, hard work and sacrifice on your part, since some of your spare time must be given over to study. But for the ambitious soldier who is determined to make every moment count in furthering his education or technical knowledge, the Army provides means and opportunities which are virtually unmatched elsewhere.
